Representative Value Opportunities portfolio. Client portfolio holdings may vary due to different restrictions, cash flows, and other relevant considerations. Active share is the extent to which a portfolio differs from the S&P 500 Index. The Value Opportunities strategy may be viewed as a non-diversified strategy, which may concentrate its assets in fewer individual holdings. The strategy may be exposed to more individual stock volatility than a more diversified strategy and may also invest in smaller and/or medium-sized companies, foreign securities, and debt securities. Investing in value stocks presents the risk that value stocks may fall out of favor with investors and underperform growth stocks during given periods. Information supplemental to strategy's composite presentation provided in accompanying performance schedule.

Composite: The Composite includes all Value Opportunities discretionary accounts. The Value Opportunities strategy seeks capital appreciation primarily through investments in companies that H&W believes have strong capital appreciation potential, with no market capitalization restrictions. The typical market cap range is Micro to Mega. For the periods January 1, 2006 through May 31, 2009, accounts with significant cash flows ($\geq 10\%$ of beginning of the month assets) were excluded from the respective month's composite calculation and included in the subsequent month. There were four non-fee paying accounts in the Composite which represented 13% of the Composite assets as of December 31, 2003 and 10% as of December 31, 2004. Thereafter, the four accounts are fee paying. (Composite creation: 2002)

Index: The S&P 500® Index ("S&P") is a broad based unmanaged index of 500 stocks, which is widely recognized as representative of the equity market in general. The Index assumes reinvestment of dividends and capital gains, and assumes no management, custody, transaction or other expenses. The value disciplines used in managing the accounts in the Composite may prevent or limit investment in major stocks in the S&P and returns may not be correlated to the index. Effective June 30, 2013, the Russell 3000® Index and Russell 3000® Value Index were deleted. The S&P 500® Index is a more representative benchmark. Benchmark returns are not covered by the report of independent verifiers.

The 3-year annualized standard deviation measures the variability of the composite (using gross returns) and the benchmark(s) returns over the preceding 36-month period ended:
